This, we maintain, it is great wrong, which, however, will be righted to morrow by the verdict of an ladignant and insulted people. The Courie will be taught the mellilesson that defamation of character is not argument, and that garbled extracts from official reports cannot deceive an intelligent community. The citizens of Louisville, tontain the weak and miserably hangry clique that stand with jawa sagape for the crumbs of officia, seeking to snap up anything that chance may bring in their way, understand their own "lesst interests." They are satisfied with the present management and prospective career of our city. They seek to change, and, least of all, such change a Locofoco rule would bring them!
